What We Are Learning!

We celebrated Earth Day by reading books, watching some cool videos, coloring, and journal writing. We got together with our 8th grade buddies and had an egg hunt and decorated cookies. The littles always enjoy spending time with them. We have also been learning all about plants this week. We made a diagram of plant parts, planted our own flower seeds, and tasted food from seeds to roots. We painted flowers using sponges, forks, and even celery stalk ends. They turned out so pretty! We worked on the letter Y with our HWT Program using Play-Doh, iPads, chalk boards, and paint doobers. In Religion we continue talking about the Easter Season and our 4th quarter virtue of Patience. Next week we will be working on the letter Z (our last one!), and learning about zoo animals.

Notes:

Important graduation information is coming home. Amanda Macer will be taking pictures on Friday, May 2nd. She will be taking a group picture and individuals for those wanting to order.

I am sending a snack calendar home and I included next week (the last few days of April) so everyone will have one last time to bring in snacks.

Have a GREAT weekend!
